DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 9 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Przilas et al.

Przilas et al discloses a spray cooler for electronics that “continually distributes” (last line of column 4) a dielectric cooling fluid (fluorinert) in relation to temperature sensor 116.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Przilas et al.

Przilas et al disclose applicant's basic inventive concept, a cooling system for electronics which controls a continual spray of coolant based on a temperature reading, substantially as claimed with the exception of using a non-dielectric cooler for the coolant. Official Notice is taken that non-dielectric coolants are well known in the spray cooling art and as such would have been obvious to an ordinary practitioner in the art to provide efficient economical cooling.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-9,11 and 12 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,880,350. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both claim the manipulation of spray area in relation to the sensed temperature of the electronic device being cooled. While the earlier patent does not explicitly claim controlling the "spray cone angle", but rather the "spray pattern", one of ordinary skill in the art would recognize that controlling the spray cone angle is a well known method to control spray patterns, such as shown in figures 6 and 7 of the earlier patent. As such, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the spray angle of the sprayers to control the spray pattern. It is noted that claim 9 does not even claim the spray angle feature and as such represents a broader claim than the earlier patented claims in the '350 patent.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 10 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
